Economic Opportunity Funders Seeks Nominees for 2023 Law and Social Policy Legacy Award

$10,000 award to recognize an organization that has contributed significantly to improving low-wage workers' lives in the U.S. through law and social policy

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Economic Opportunity Funders (EOF) announced today the launch of the 2023 Law and Social Policy Legacy Award, which recognizes an organization defending and advocating for low-wage workers' rights.

EOF seeks nominees whose work is significant in improving low-wage workers' lives and advancing best practice in the field. The ideal nominee's work should be collaborative, engaged in concert with partners and impacted communities, and centered on efforts that will have a lasting impact, advancing structural and systemic change.

The $10,000 award is open to any organization working in the field of law and social policy to advance low-wage workers' rights in the United States. Nominated organizations may be of any size or budget and work may have just started or occurred over years. Individuals are not eligible.

"We are honored to continue this tradition of recognizing organizations that advance and protect the rights of low-wage workers," said Cema Siegel, co-director of EOF. "With the Public Welfare Foundation's legacy of support, this is an opportunity to celebrate the work that is being done to address poverty and expand economic opportunity."

Anyone can make a nomination, and self-nominations are allowed. Nominators may make one nomination per year. Two references are required along with the online application.

The awardee will be honored and recognized at the EOF Annual Budget and Tax Briefing in April 2023.

This award will be given by EOF with support from Public Welfare Foundation annually until 2030 as a part of their legacy investment into the workers' rights field.

The Law & Social Policy Legacy Award was established in 2020 to recognize organizations defending and advocating for low-wage workers' rights and to increase knowledge of this work in the philanthropic community. Previous winners include the Northwest Workers' Justice Project (NWJP) and Centro de los Derechos del Migrante, Inc. (CDM).

Nominations must be received by 11:59 PM ET on November 7, 2022

Established in 1992, Economic Opportunity Funders is a network of national, regional and local level funders working to advance economic equity and opportunity in the United States. We believe in building an economy that works for all, regardless of race, ethnicity, immigration status, education, income, religion, gender identity, disability, or age. We support a strong public sector and policies that create a healthy, fair, and just economy where opportunity and prosperity are broadly shared.

EOF focuses its work in three key and intersecting areas: poverty and opportunity, protecting and supporting workers, and tax and budget policies. We provide a platform for funders to share information, exchange ideas and best practice, and collaborate around identified areas of interest.
